MUSIC IS A UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE

-Mac Davis

Music—whether it be folk, rock, country, or classical—reflects our lifestyle and our experiences. It reaches out to all ages, races and classes in a language we can all understand.

Music is so much a part of our everyday life that we take it for granted. We are surrounded by the sounds of music in the supermarket, in the car, at the movies, even on the football field.

The language of music ranges from the complexity of a symphony to the simplicity of a nursery rhyme put to music. But it is a language that everyone can understand and appreciate.

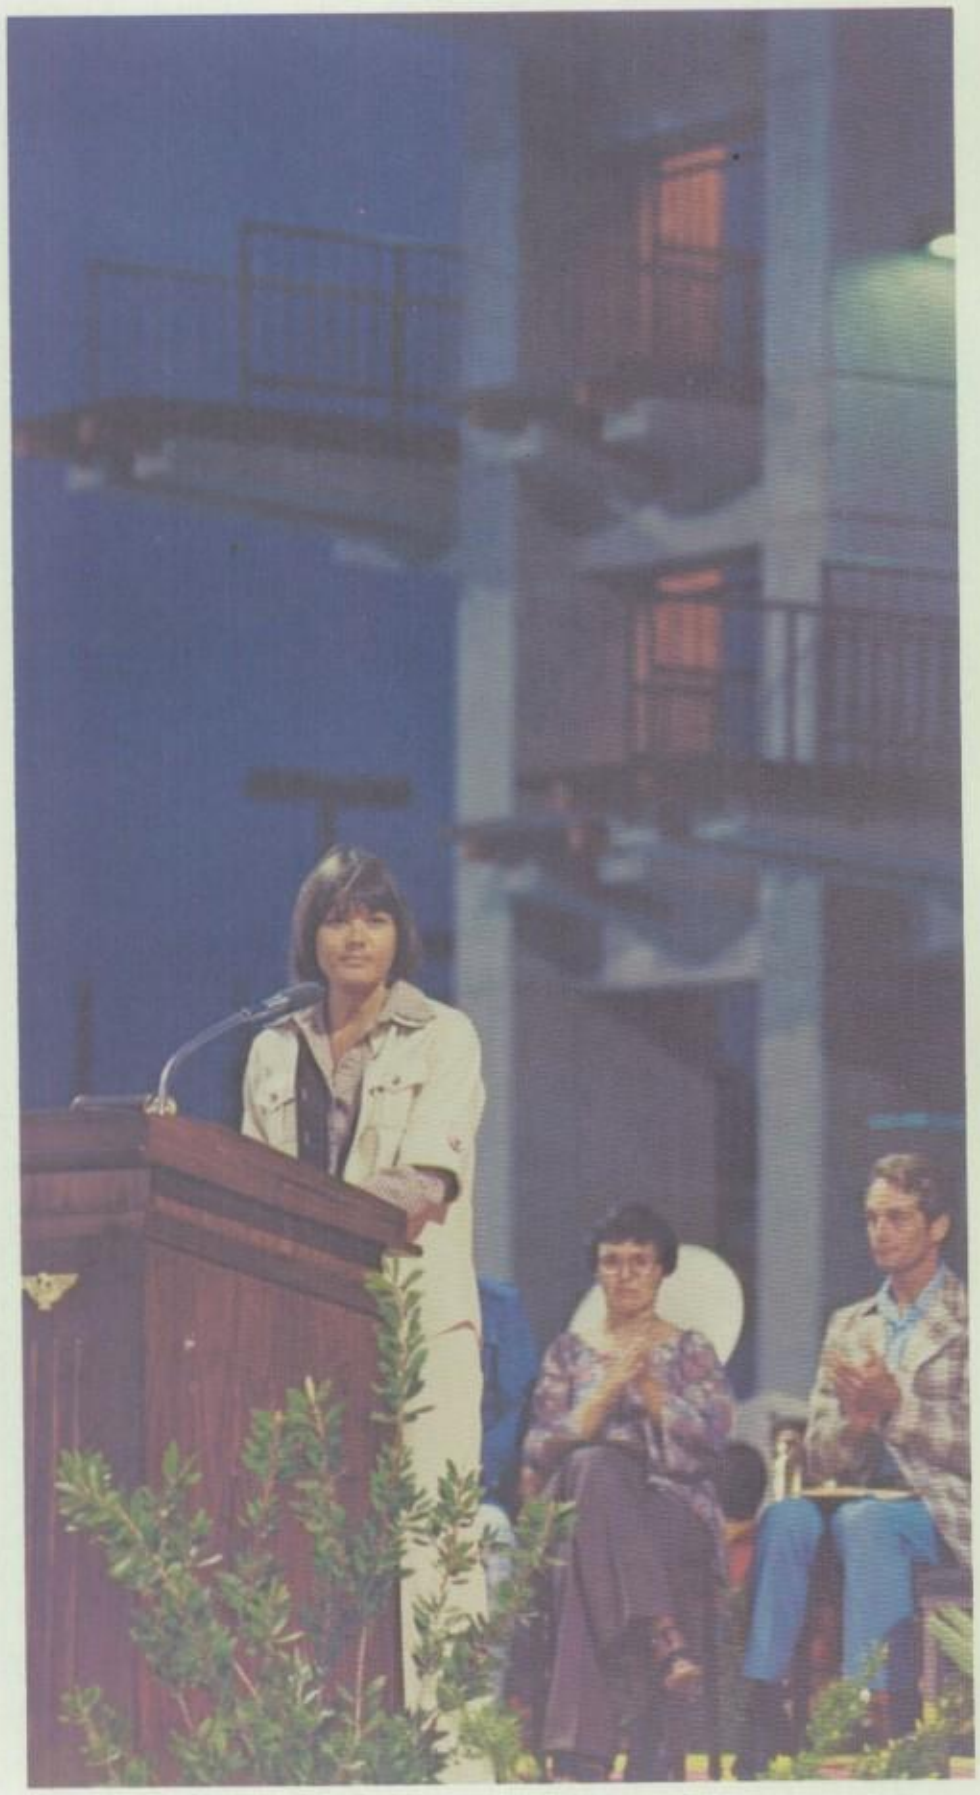
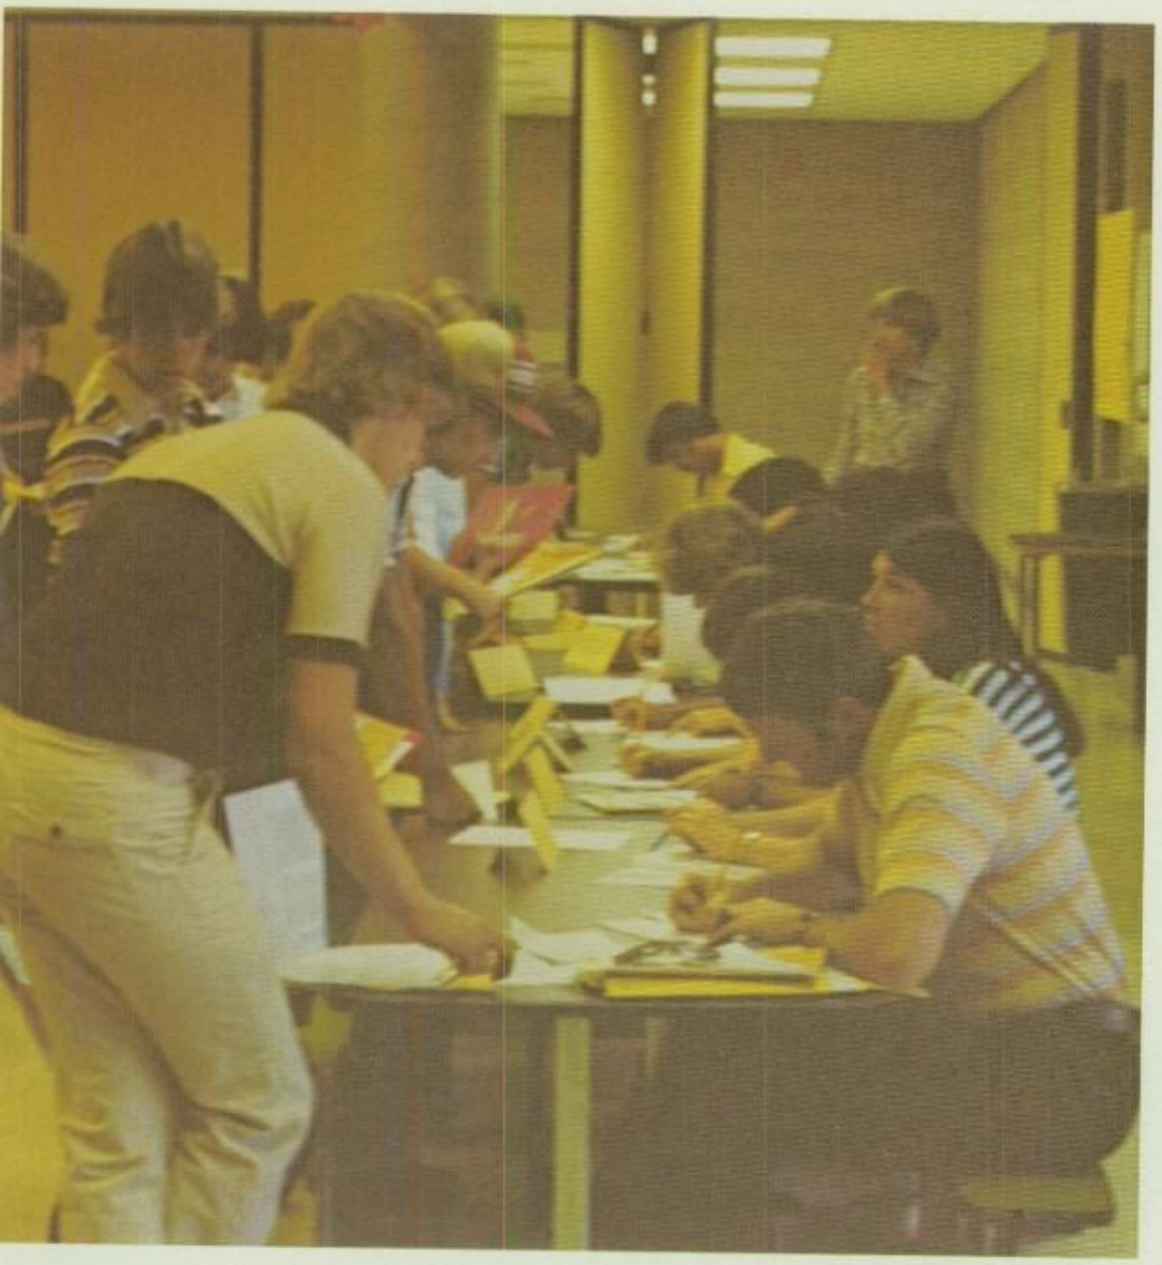
Deborah Meyer , (below) keynote speaker at the pool dedication, compliments the district on the pool complex. (Right) Tere asks Tina, "Where have you been all my life?" Freshmen (below right) show their enthusiasm at their first high school rally. Teachers as well as students (opposite above) find registration a hectic experience. (Opposite below) Papa Du Run Run was the highlight of the first dance.





ONLY THE BEGINNING . . .

-Chicago

Students were hardly given a chance to catch their breath after registration before plunging into a multitude of campus activities.

After six years in the planning and building stages, the Clovis Olympic Swim Complex was officially opened on September 9th. Former Olympic Champion Deborah Meyer delivered the keynote address, which was followed by several swimming and diving exhibitions.

Rolled up jeans, T-shirts, and knee-length skirts could be seen all over campus when we celebrated 50's Day on September 15th. That night, after returning from a successful concert tour with the Beach Boys, the Papa Du Run Run band made their second consecutive appearance at the first dance of the year.

Mr. Jim Coiner (above) encourages students to purchase their tickets for the Papa Du Run Run dance. (Right) Jay Green, Jim Sternfels, Butch Garcia, David Stone and Brad Comstock show that Clovis West is number one! Taking a break from dancing, (oppostie above) students watch the Ali-Spinks title bout. Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Nobile (opposite right) receive a special award for their part in making the Olympic Torch possible. Mr. Tom O'Brien is Clovis West answer to Wolfman Jack. (Opposite far right)

C'MON BABY, LIGHT MY FIRE . . . .

-Jose Feliciano

"The Torch is Lit" was chosen as the theme for the 1978-79 school year. It was an appropriate theme. An olympic torch, acquired through the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Nobile, was fired-up to signify the start of many Clovis West athletic events.

This theme was also symbolic of the enthusiasm and spirit of cooperation that students, faculty and parents displayed in an all-out effort to make the co-curricular experience in Eagle Country unforgettable.

I WANT TO SEE
EVERYBODY SINGIN'
EVERYBODY LAUGHIN'
EVERYBODY HAPPY

-Seals and Crofts

If it took screaming to fire up our team—we yelled until we were hoarse. If a song could inspire—the singing could be heard throughout the school. If a skit could communicate our desire to win—we performed, and clowned, and laughed until our sides ached. No gimmick or amount of preparation was too much trouble when it came to planning our rallies. AND THEY WERE FANTASTIC!

THESE ARE THE GOOD OLD DAYS

-Carly Simon

Homecoming week was full of expectation. Who would win the football game? Which floats would come away victorious in the Homecoming Parade? And probably above all, who would be the next Homecoming Queen?

On the day before the big night, the loudest rally of the year was held. The Queen candidates were introduced among thunderous ovations, cheers were yelled out, and by the time the rally was over, the Juniors came away with the Spirit Stick.

The next night all the questions were answered. The varsity football team beat Selma in the waning moments of the game. All the floats were superb. And Lori Figueroa was named the new Homecoming Queen.

After the football game, students danced to the music of Loadstone in the Clovis West cafeteria.

CAN'T STAND STILL WHILE THE MUSIC'S PLAYING

-Neil Diamond

From the tunes and attire of the 50's to the magical enchantment of the Hawaiian Islands – the dances at Clovis West were characterized by a variety of themes.

Doing the latest steps to records instead of live music did not dim the enthusiasm of the dance goers.

Attendance at after game dances was increased from last year.

-Queen

Members of Clovis West athletic teams were honored at a sports banquet after the conclusion of the sports seasons.

Plaques and trophies were awarded to outstanding performers to honor them for their excellent athletic skill.

The player judged to be the most outstanding in each sport was awarded the Golden Eagle Award, an award sponsored by Security Pacific Bank.

TONIGHT WILL BE THE NIGHT OF ALL NIGHTS

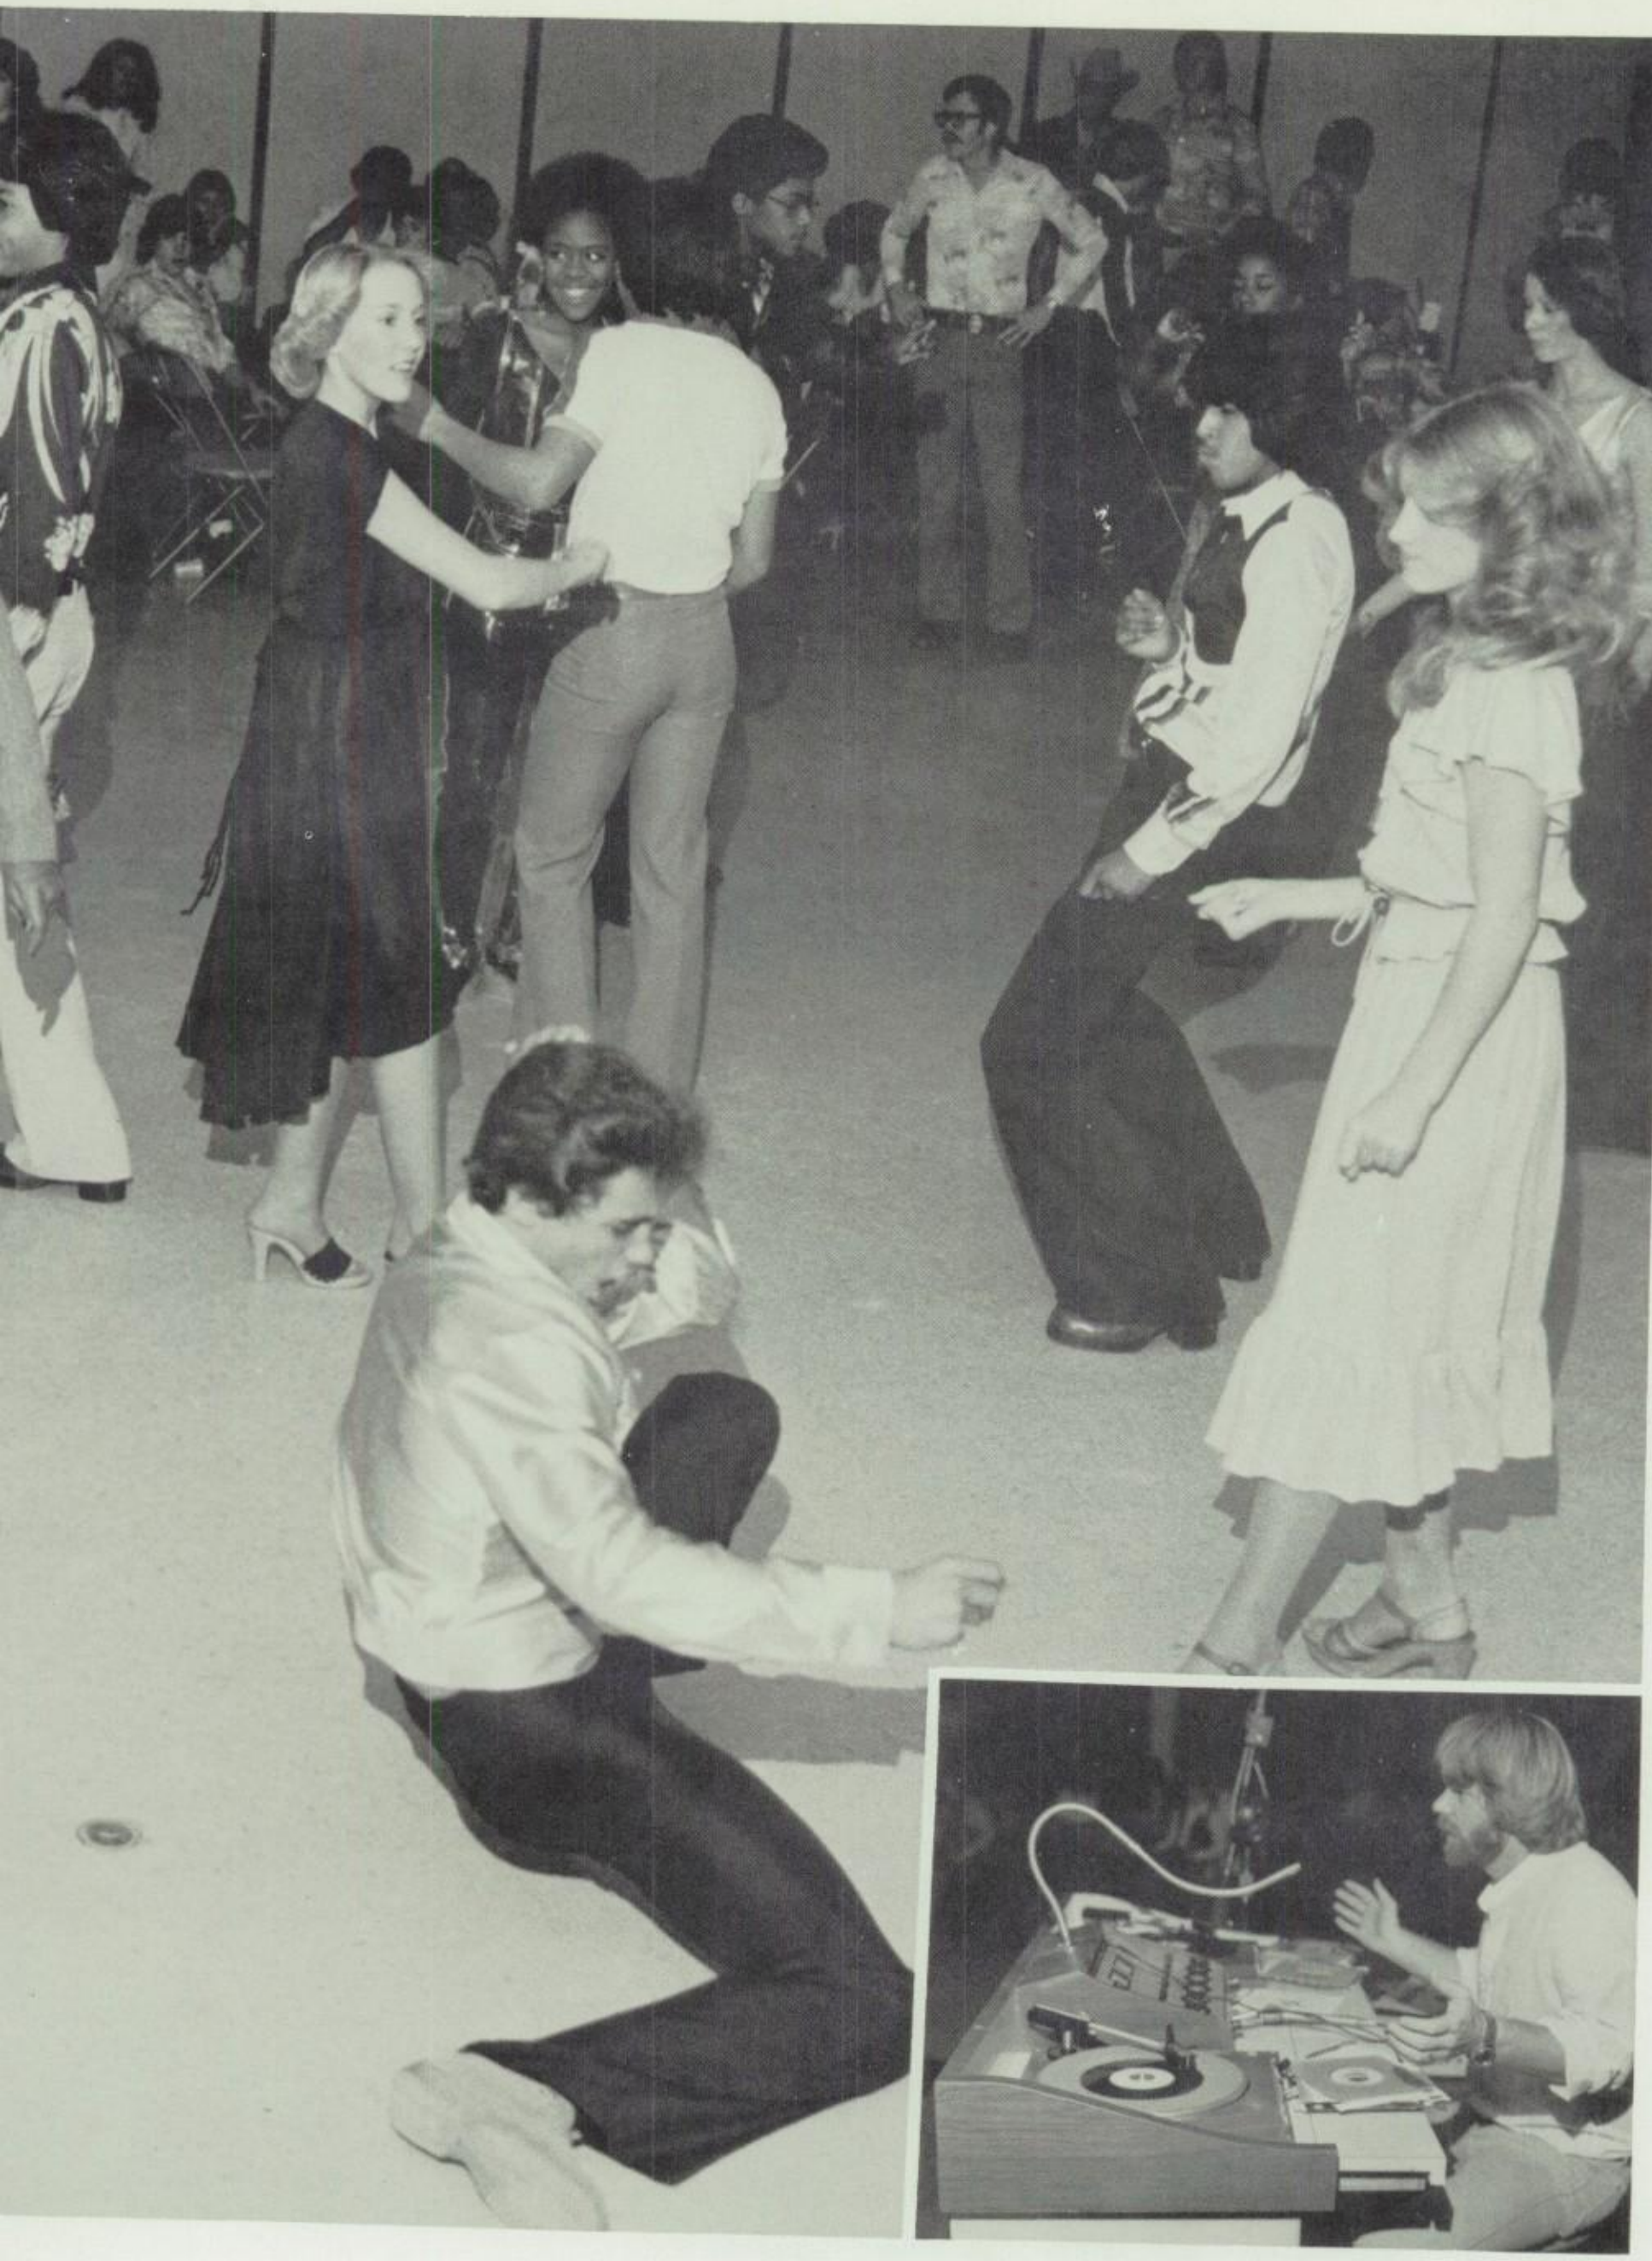
-from West Side Story

Disco fever arrived at Clovis West just in time for Christmas. Couples danced to the music amidst fog, bubbles, and glittering light.

Radio station K104 provided the records and amplifier equipment, and Steve Dial was the disc jockey for the event that attracted many students.

People danced, and when they couldn't dance anymore they moved over to the refreshment table where they filled up on sparkling punch.

The decision to go with a disco instead of a formal held off campus was made in an effort to save money that would be used on the Spring Formal.



IT'S THE LAUGHTER WE WILL REMEMBER . . . . .

-Barbara Streisand

Physical comedian Flip Reade provided the entertainment for the first assembly of the year, a preview of the show that he was to perform at Clark Auditorium. Flip's mime and amazing muscle control earned him a well-deserved standing ovation.

Rallies were as good as ever, especially the Homecoming Rally in which the Junior's enthusiasm, loud and consistent, earned them the coveted Spirit Stick.

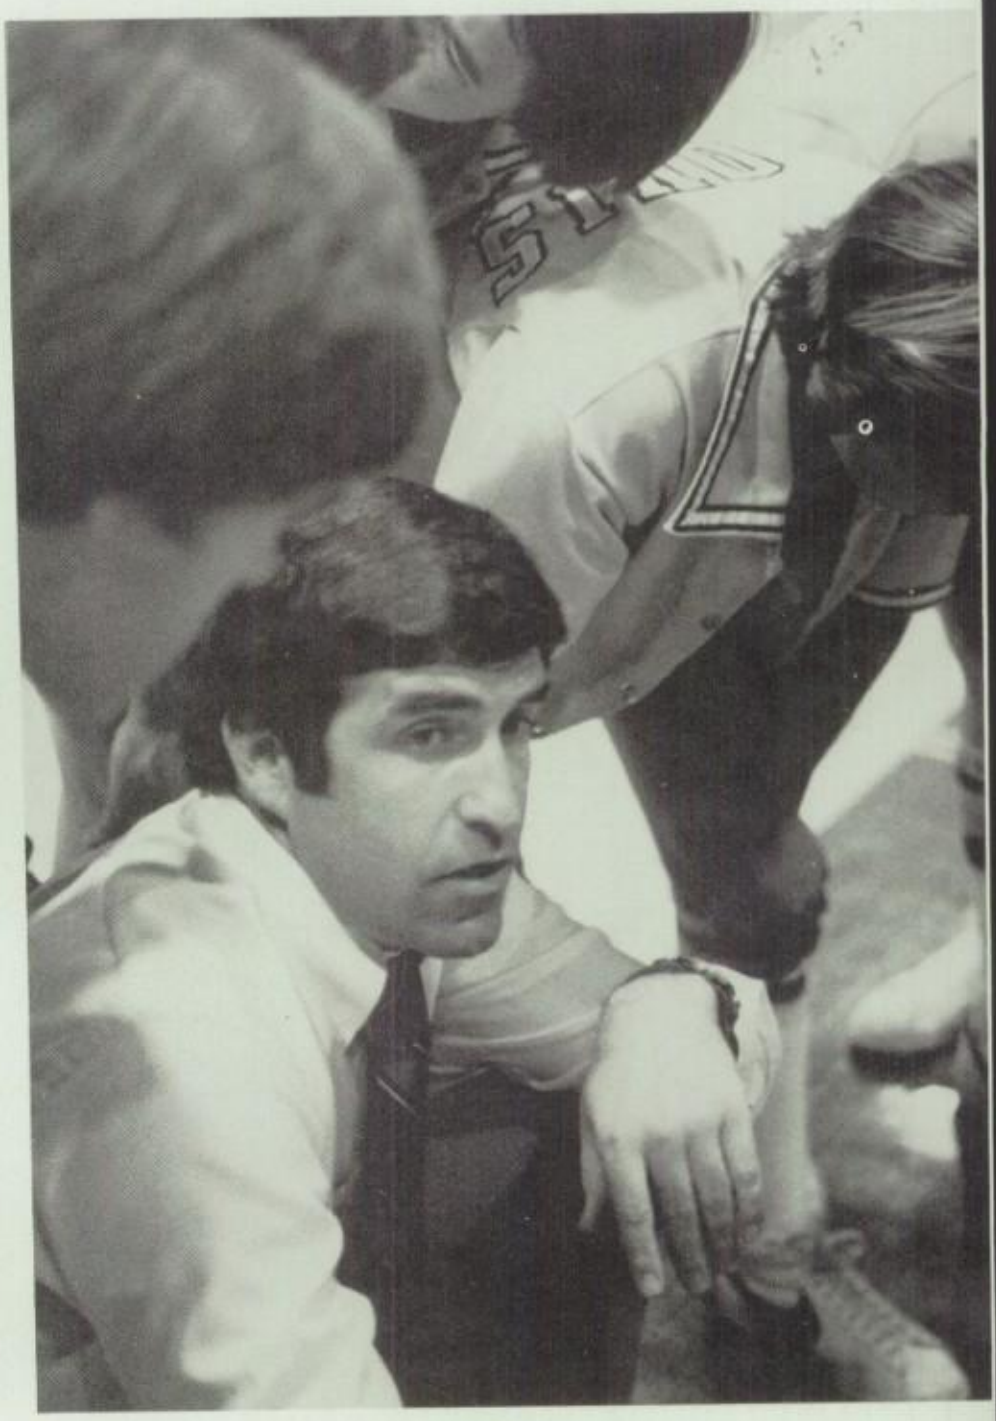
(Below) Pep Girls finish up one of their routines. Principal Roger Oraze (right) guides Deputy Principal Tom Crow around the campus. Coach Fagundes gives the team final instructions (below right) before the start of the overtime period. This attraction (opposite above) was made by the Science Club for the Homecoming festivities. Band leader Bob Bird makes band members aware of the next song selection (opposite below).



THE FACES I REMEMBER FROM THE PLACES IN MY PAST

-James Taylor

When Mr. Noli left to take over the principalship of the new Intermediate school, Roger Oraze was chosen to be Clovis West's new Principal.

A mini-rally was held in February so the various pep groups could show off their routines before performing them in the Clovis High competition.

More students than ever turned out to support the Golden Eagle basketball team.

Students worked extremely hard this year in preparing floats for the Homecoming Parade.

The band provided rousing music during rallies and at sporting events.

WE HOPE YOU WILL ENJOY THE SHOW

—Beatles

A small kingdom was ruled over by a talkative queen and a mute king. That was the beginning plot of the Clovis West spring musical, "Once Upon a Mattress." This musical comedy based on the story of "The Princess and the Pea" was presented by the performing arts department on March 8, 9, and 10 at the Clark Auditorium.

The major conflict in the story is the law of the land that states that no one in the kingdom may wed until the prince shares his marriage bed. According to the queen there are no princesses qualified to marry her son.

When the Knight of the Herald arrived with the 13th princess to attempt to win the hand of the prince, the excitement began and stayed until the final curtain.

The play directed by Tom O'Brien featured a pit orchestra and full choral accompaniment.

WE GO TOGETHER WE MAKE A GOOD TEAM

-Helen Reddy

Time, energy, and enthusiasm are vital to the success of any cheerleading group—but in Eagle Country these traits are just the beginning. In addition to innovative and precision routines, the girls spent long hours painting banners to decorate the campus, the gymnasium, and Lamonica Stadium. They divided their time and talents among all the sports events and entered in numerous competitions held during the year.

SHADOW DANCING TAKE-ME THROUGH THE NIGHT

-Andy Gibb

Carnation sales provided a new tradition for Clovis West and also gave a much needed boost to the pep group treasury. For fifty cents students could send, anonymously, a red carnation to anyone on campus. Pep group members delivered the flowers on game days.

The girls began their preparation for the school year with double session practices in the summer. It paid off because their attendance at Santa Barbara was highlighted by the winning of blue ribbons for performance and the prestigeous spirit stick.

Award winning pep groups didn't just happen—they result from hard work and strenuous training. The Junior Varsity Cheerleaders provided moral support for all the junior varsity athletic events.

The antics of the mascots kept the crowds entertained and Donna Clover dazzled the fans with her baton.

FLY LIKE AN EAGLE...

-Steve Miller Band

The age old addage "practice makes perfect" is true for our C.W. Flyers. Their work paid off at the Selma Band Review, when they won first place in the halftime show category, and third place in the parade division.

Practice paid off again when Head Lettergirl Lori Figueroa was selected out of 4,000 girls nationwide to be a member of the All-American Drill Team.

In addition to competitions, the girls performed at the Fresno District Fair, during halftime at a Fresno State basketball game, as well as in the Clovis Big Hat and Rodeo Parades.

The C.W. Flyers practice two periods a day in the fall, one period a day in the spring. They stay after school one day a week, and even work at home to perfect their technique.

One of the jazz band's major functions was to supply the music for all the rallies. The band also competed in several competitions in which they received excellent and superior ratings.

The symphonic band attended several music festivals and received very impressive marks.

I AM WOMAN

-Helen Reddy

Undaunted by one of the coldest nights of the year, the Class of 80 defeated the Class of 81 12-6 and the Class of 82 7-6 to capture the Powder Puff Championship for the second year in a row.

Quarterback Suzanne Peet, assisted by Jennifer Martin and Frances Aragon, scored the points for the Juniors.

The sophomores, paced by Ruth Lawanson, earned a 6-0 victory over the freshmen.

Danny Ray, freshman, was named the King Cutie during the halftime events.

JUST ONE MORE YEAR AND THEN WE'LL BE HAPPY

-Jerry Rafferty

It was a year of hard work for the class of 1980. A committee established to set up senior and graduation traditions worked throughout the year to form the groundwork for the first senior class at Clovis West.

The Spring Formal, held May 12 at the Holiday Inn, was attended by many upper classmen. The dance, under the leadership of Doug Prudek, offered students the opportunity to dance to the music of Touch in a Polynesian setting. A mid-March sucker sale replenished the deflated class treasury.

Raising money is a problem for any organization. The sophomore class solved this problem by selling seat cushions. Class officers set a goal of $1,700 to be reached by the end of the school year.

Members of the class entered a float in the Homecoming Parade as well as participating in the Clovis Big Hat Parade.

WELCOME TO THE GRAND ILLUSION

-Styx

The largest class on campus, the freshmen, made their size apparent by winning several spirit sticks at athletic promoting rallies.

Building up a class treasury posed a difficult problem for the first year high school students, but they overcame this problem by selling t-shirts that proclaimed "I'm proud to be an Eagle."

KNOWING THAT YOU CARE ALWAYS MAKES ME SMILE

-Helen Reddy

Policy and procedural decisions that affect the Clovis Unified School District are the responsibility of the members of the Governing Board. They meet bi-monthly as a group, but also spend long hours observing, researching, and evaluating individually.

District administrators, in addition to their everyday duties, were busy coordinating plans for a new junior high complex that will relieve overcrowded conditions of both Clovis West and at Clark Intermediate.

AS TIME GOES ON I REALIZE JUST WHAT YOU MEAN TO ME

-Chicago

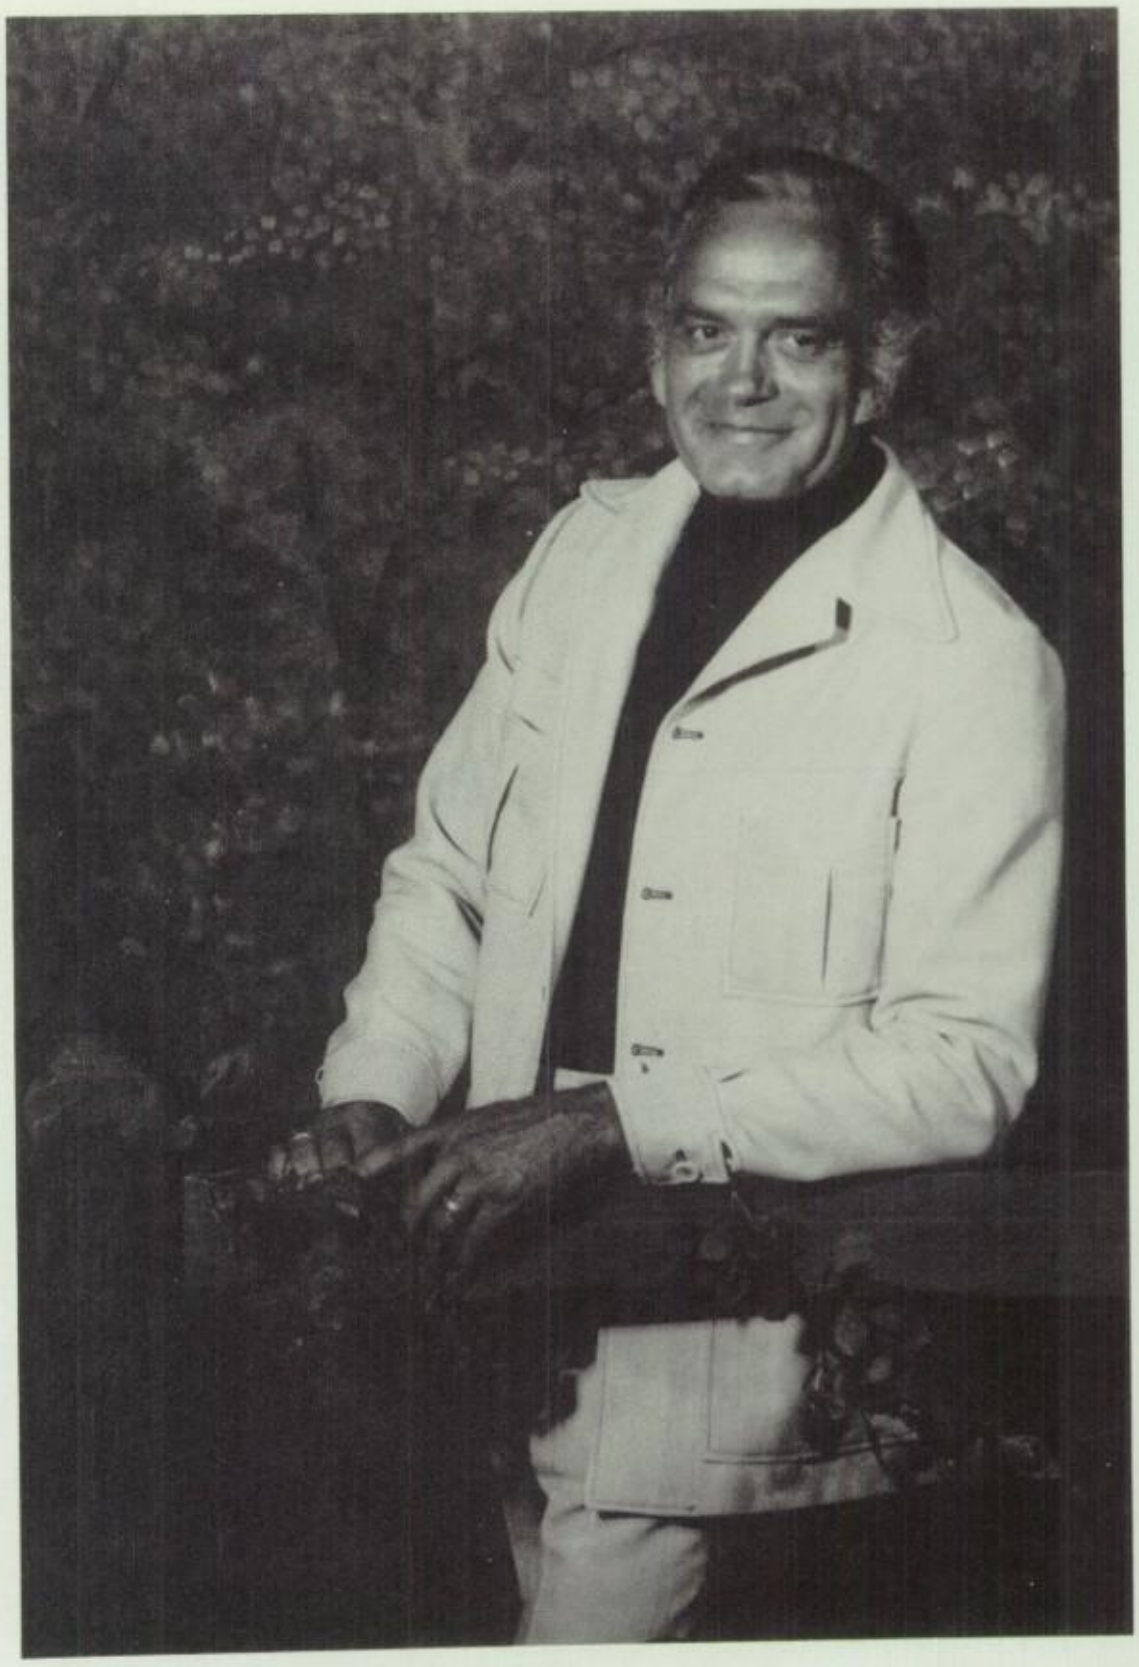
A person who gives his time, energy, and understanding freely and without qualms is the best kind of person there is.

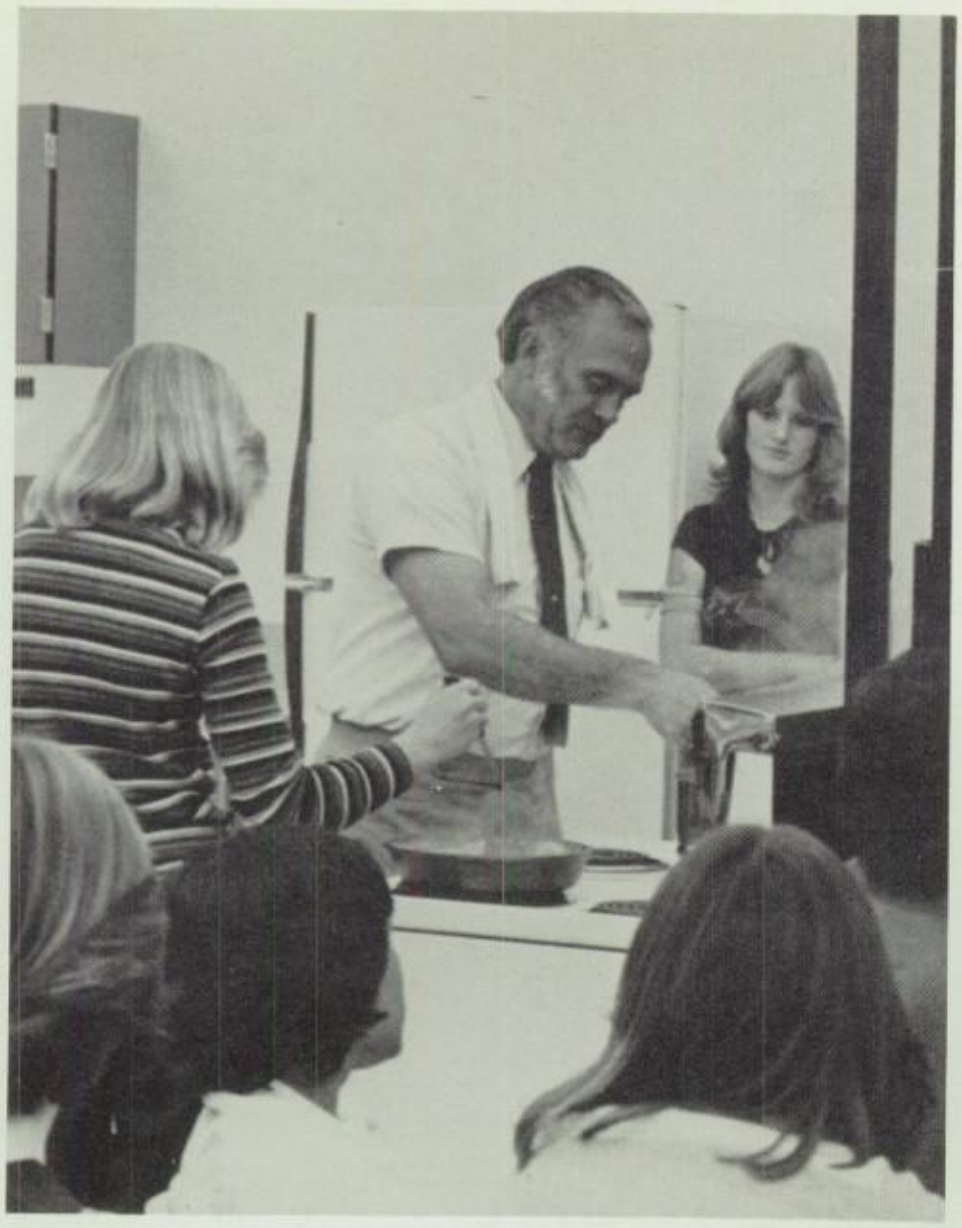
Mr. Bill Noli is the best kind of person there is. He has overseen most of us for five years, and as a result, has greatly influenced our education and our attitudes toward life. We have learned that while education is a serious matter, it can still be a pleasurable experience. Not many school administrators offer to sit in a dunk tank or to dress up for rallies, but Mr. Noli did, and earned many a student's respect for his participation.

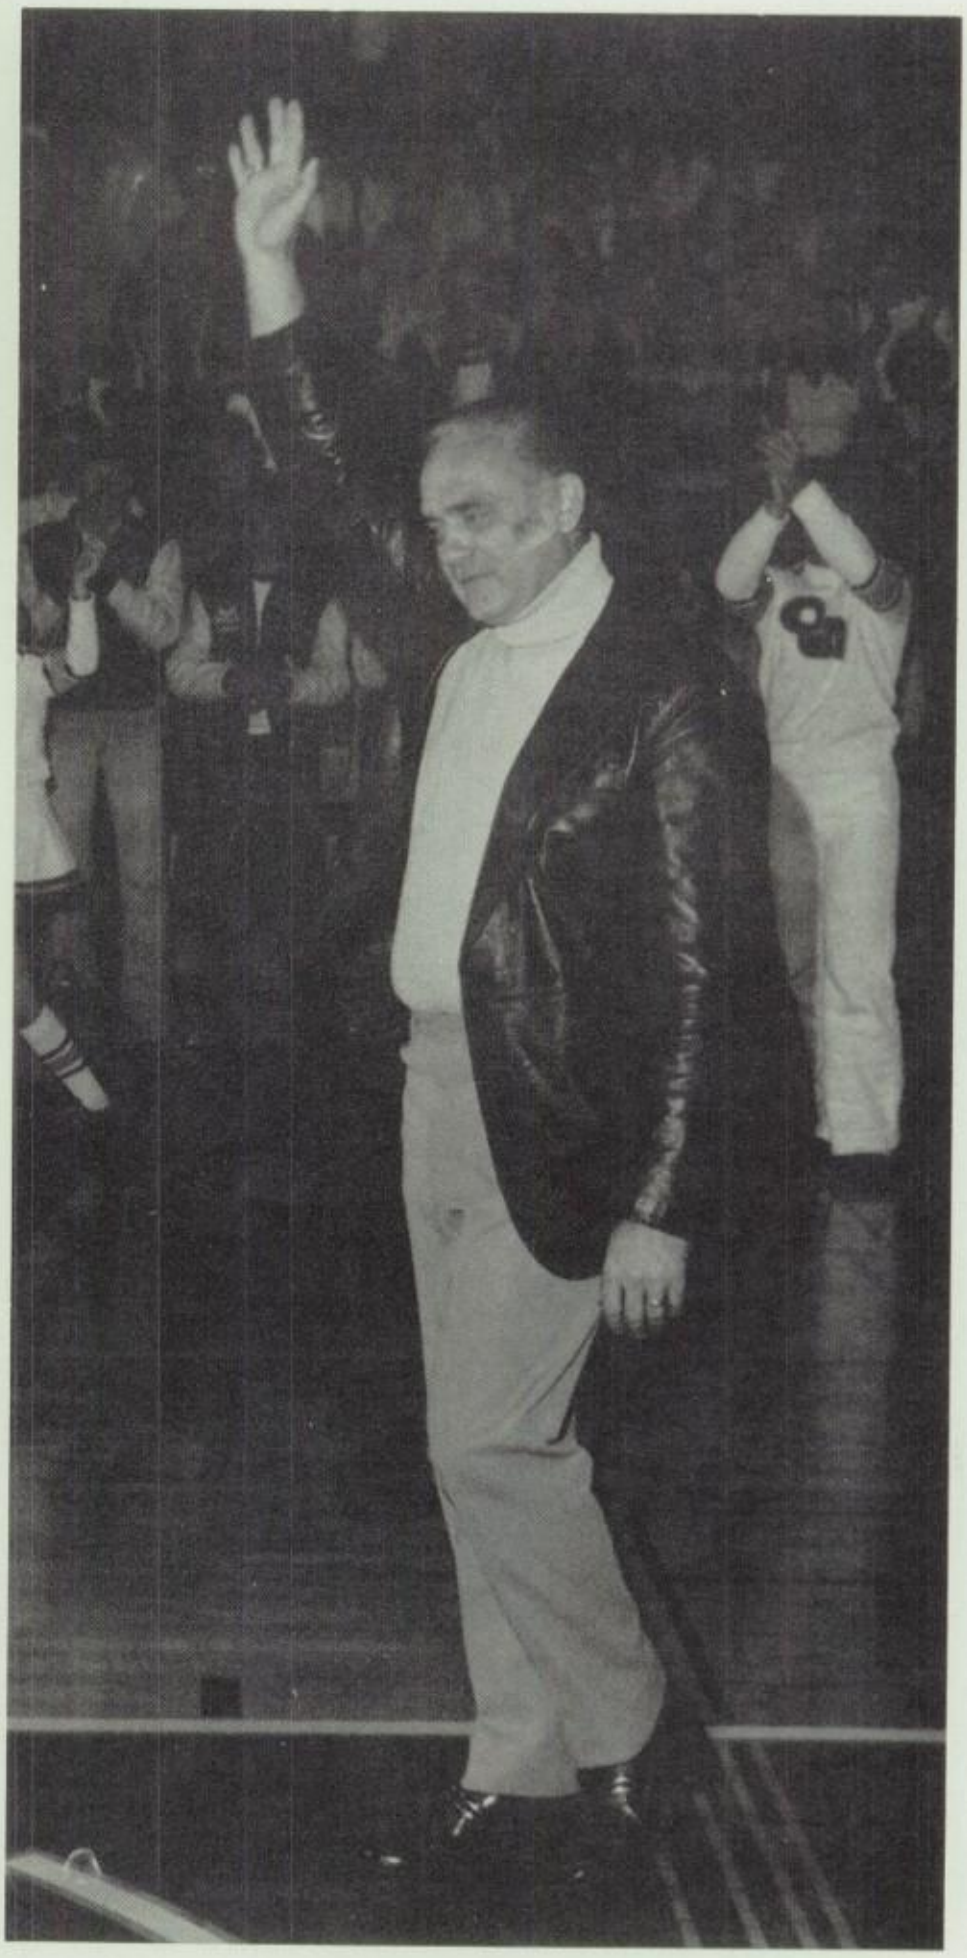
Mr. Noli was born and raised in Madera. After graduating from Madera High School he enrolled at Fresno State where he majored in speech and served as Student Body President. Then, after serving as an officer in the U.S. Air Force, Mr. Noli came to Clovis where he taught at various elementary schools before becoming principal at Dry Creek. After two years at Dry Creek, Mr. Noli took over the principalship of C. Todd Clark Intermediate. When Clovis West was in the planning stages, he was chosen to become the new school's first principal.

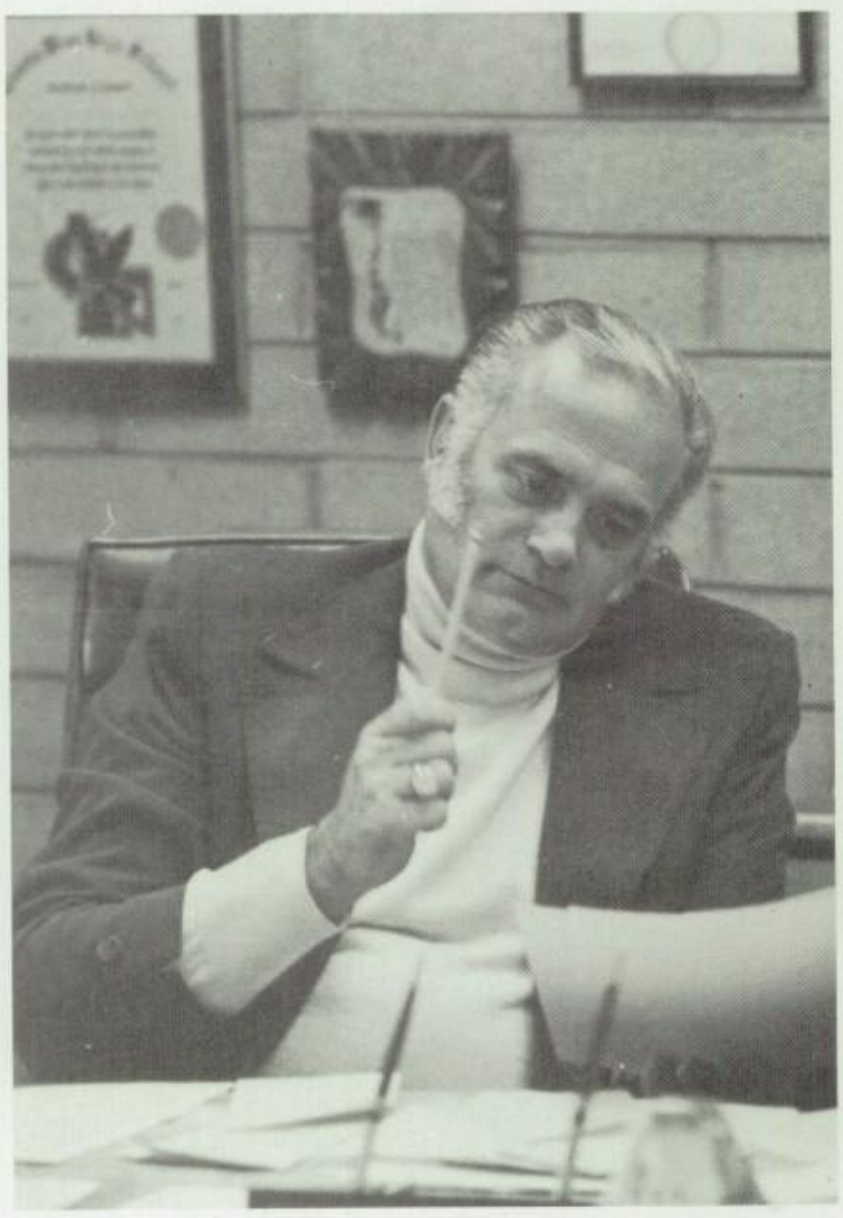
The two and one half years that Mr. Noli has been here at Clovis West have been tremendously rewarding for all. Both academically and athletically, Clovis West students and teachers have reflected Mr. Noli's positive and winning attitude.

The Olympiad staff would like to show our appreciation and to give thanks to Mr. William Noli for all he has accomplished, by dedicating this yearbook to him. He will always have our deepest gratitutde.









(Below) Principal Bill Noli puts in long hours to improve the school. Office secretaries (Right) Judy Been, Kathy Burgess, Judi Noakes, Margo Duke, and Sandi Rogers perform functions vital to the operation of the school. Jim Coiner and Bill Noli (Below Center) present Rae Ann Picanso with the keys to the Pinto. Bill Noli and Roger Oraze probably couldn't survive without the help of dedicated secretaries Irene Gorham and Dana Taylor (Far Right). Deputy Principal Roger Oraze became principal at mid-year when Mr. Noli moved to the new intermediate school.

YOU CAN SAY THAT I'M YOUR FRIEND

- Seals and Crofts

In the 1978-79 school year, Clovis West "Lit the Torch." This was only the beginning, for it will be an eternal flame for Clovis West students and someday, for alumni.

This has been a most successful year for the "School of Olympic Spirit," and I would like to thank the students, staff, and school administration for their excellent performance throughout the year.

It has been a most rewarding and pleasant experience to be your Principal these past three years, and I am sure Clovis West will continue to lead the way in academics, athletics, and activities for many years to come.

W. T. Nobi

One of the strengths of the Cluster approach to school organization is the formation of a team comprised of a Learning Director, a counselor, and a secretary that work together to service the needs of the teachers and students.

Cluster One adopted the motto "The Professional Cluster" and emphasized the career positions open to students who become proficient in business skills, foreign languages and English.

The Vocational Cluster, Cluster II, was enhanced by the acquisition of equipment and machinery to provide students with a broad orientation of the world of work.

The Search Cluster, otherwise known as Cluster III, added eleventh grade electives to their individualized instruction program.

Media services, as well as an olympic training program gave more depth to Cluster IV, the Performing Arts Clusteer.

THE PAST IS GONE

-Aerosmith

The Social Science Department expanded this year with the addition of two new teachers and several new classes.

Human Relations proved to be one of the most popular and busiest of the new classes. Students were almost constantly conducting polls of the opinions and ideas of students on campus.

HEAR MY WORDS THAT I MIGHT TEACH YOU

-Paul Simon

The Industrial Arts Department grew considerably this year. The addition of five new classes and the acquisition of the latest equipment used in the wood, metal and auto industries will definitely establish an industrial arts program that will be comparable to any in the valley.

Expanding into the areas of child development and family living, the Home Economics Department marked another successful year. The Home Ec classes provide the much needed domestic education necessary in adult life.

The Art Department offered classes to the highly advanced student, with the goal of producing quality work capable of being sold for profit. Photography continued to be one of the most popular classes.

TAKIN' CARE OF BUSINESS

-BTO

Teaching students how to survive in the business world was one of the aims of the Business Department. Clovis West's training provided the necessary skills needed to enter the job market in positions ranging from office clerk to accountant.

The growth of the department was evidenced by the addition of three staff members. Several new classes were also offered including shorthand and accounting. Business Common Core, first introduced last year, continued to be a popular offering.

The Future Business Leaders of America club, sponsored by the Business Department, operated a booth at Sadie Hawkins as well as entering a float in the Homecoming Parade.

Publishing a school Literary Magazine was one of the major achievements of the English department headed by Mr. Jerry MacDonald.

"The Torch", as the magazine was called gave students the opportunity to have their original plays, poems, stories and artwork published for the enjoyment of the whole student body.

The main goal of the English Department was to insure that all Clovis West graduates be able to write a standard paragraph as proof of their understanding of the English language.

Ninety percent of the student body was enrolled in a math class this year. An indivdualized option program was instituted this year. It allowed each student to choose their own math class after assessing their individual strengths and weaknesses.

Under the leadership of Chairperson Ginny Boris, the department continued to develop a four year math program that will enable students to enrich their comprehension and enjoyment of math.

Four classes, including industrial math and trigonometry, were added to the roster of courses already offered.

Each student enrolled in a math class was encouraged to join the Math Club. Participation in Math Club events enabled the student to earn extra credit points.

With the addition of the new pool and tennis courts, several new classes were added to the already varied course listing of the Physical Education Department. Skin and scuba diving, synchronized swimming and tennis were among these classes. Also, for the first time this year, students were given the opportunity to choose their classes and teachers in a year-long block.

The new classes, as well as the old ones, were designed to develop an appreciation of sports and the value of good health and physical fitness in addition to learning how to work and play in a group.

The Performing Arts Department, the busiest and most visual department in representing Clovis West to the public, completed a very challenging and rewarding year.

A fold out newspaper that contained spot news, features, and pictures, was produced for the first time by the journalism staff.

Television students were involved in three levels of video classes. Beginning students participated in the introductory level of video journalism and television production. Advanced students produced their own documentaries and news stories. Control Room Supervisors operated the school's closed circuit television network to produce 16mm movies, professional video tapes, and student produced newscasts for use by the entire student body.

Instrumental music and choir students participated in several music festivals as well as offering a Christmas program for the community.

The Science Department is one of the most popular areas for students. Although some classes are required for high school graduation, students still have the opportunity to take classes that will prepare them for college and possibly a career in the field of science.

The rapid growth of the department, evidenced by several additions to the course curriculum, proves that students at Clovis West are getting top quality education from top quality instructors built around the student's present and future needs.

WE DO IT ALL FOR YOU

-Barry Manilow

No job was out of the ordinary for our custodians. Whether it was maintaining the orderly appearance of the campus or retrieving volleyballs from the gym rafters, they performed all that was asked of them.

The cooks, in an effort to eliminate food waste, asked students from district schools to plan daily lunch menues.

Special Education teachers Steve Kelly and Terry Jones provided help to students who were not quite ready to handle the rigors of a high school schedule.

Maintaining campus security was the job of Dave Schiavon.

The Foreign Language Department added advanced courses in French, German, and Spanish that were designed to meet the entrance requirements of most universities.

Almost any kind of reading material could be found in the library. Whether it be source material for term papers or just a book for pleasure reading, the library had a large assortment of publications.

Many people contributed to the smooth running of the school, including Laura Willers the nurse, Lorraine Taylor and Lavern Klopp who supervised the tutors, and Mary Rodriguez who ran the print shop.

AN EVERLASTING VISION OF AN EVERCHANGING VIEW

-Carole King-

The Student Council is probably the most important student group on campus.

The elected officials, 28 in all, get together to discuss and enact student initiated legislation.

One of the main projects the council took on this year was a Student Council exchange program with Central and Atwater High Schools. Council members from each school visit and observe the other school's campuses.

Over 60 members of the House of Representatives meet twice monthly to discuss problems and activities happening on campus.

The house is comprised of one member of each first period class, who, after meetings, report back to their classes the various happenings around the school.

The Inner-School Organization was formed to better the relationship between Clovis West and Clovis High. Five members from each school discuss activities, among other things, that the two schools can participate in together.

A trip to Lake Tahoe was one of the many trips the Ski Club embarked on this year. After a long day on the slopes, club members stayed the night then hit the powder the following day. The Ski Club is one of the largest clubs on campus, boasting nearly 50 avid skiers.

Organizing and officiating the Powder Puff games was the responsibility of Block CW. The club for lettermen also visited a local convalescent hospital and provided games and a huge fruit basket for the elderly people residing there.

The purpose of the MAYO club is twofold, first, to promote a better understanding of the Mexican-American heritage, and second, to perform worthwhile services to the school and community. Fifteen club members participated in activities ranging from a newspaper drive to the organization of Cinco de Mayo festivities.

The Black Student Association took part in many school activities including the planning and operation of a dance for the seventh and eighth graders.

Giving students information about science outside the classroom was the goal of the Science Club.

About twenty-five students took part in activities the club participated in including several field trips, entering a float in the Homecoming Parade, and sponsoring a booth during Sadie Hawkins Week.

Students could earn extra credit points by joining the Math Club. Members of the club participated in several local and statewide math competitions.

Members of the Chess Club could often be found moving their pieces around the board. The club sponsored several tournaments in which members participated.

The Clovis West Vocal Music Department students participated in a wide variety of events this year. Many choral festivals and concerts were attended by the singers, as well as performing in the all-school musical, "Once Upon a Matress."

For the first time ever, the entire vocal department was to have joined forces to offer a Christmas program for the community entitled "Feast of Lights" which unfortunately was cancelled due to an outbreak of the Russian flu.

For the first time this year a fold out newspaper was produced by the journalism staff. Ad space was sold to local businesses and individual copies of the paper were sold to students in order to support the Eagles Eye without depending on student body treasury funds.

The paper contained news features, editorials, and pictures aimed at letting the student body know what was going on at Clovis West.

Also for the first time a school literary magazine was published. The C.W. TORCH, as the magazine was called, spotlighted student creative writing, art, and photography.

TIME IN A BOTTLE

-Jim Croce

A school's yearbook is an attempt to crystalize the people and events that constitute the school year. The comradeship, the scenes, and the experiences that transpired this year will never be the same. Like capturing time in a bottle, a yearbook captures time in a way that can be reexperienced again and again.

The time and effort that goes into producing a yearbook is not realized by most people. The countless pictures that must be taken, developed, and printed, the layouts that must be drawn up, and the many other occurrences that add up to many missed classes and long hours after school. Not to mention the frazzled nerves that arise when a deadline approaches.

It is our hope that this yearbook can reflect the uniqueness of this year and make it live forever.

A last minute victory over Selma in the Homecoming game proved to be the topper to an exciting football season. In their first year of varsity competition the Eagles turned in a one win six loss record. Although the record doesn't reflect it, the games were hard-fought and close. Receiving awards for the varsity were David Fanning who won both the Golden Eagle Award and the Coaches Award, Scott Keller received the Defensive Captain's Award, and George Rodriguez was handed the Offensive Captain's Award.

A share of the Central Sequoia League Championship was the reward that the junior varsity football team received for their outstanding season. The team finished the year with a six win one loss record that tied them with Selma for league supremacy. Recipients of awards were Victor Murphy, Coaches Award; Scott January, Outstanding Defensive Player; and Cliff Hannenman, Outstanding Offensive Player.

In their first year of varsity competition, the gymnastics team compiled a three win five loss record to finish fifth in the North Yosemite League.

Beating Fresno High and Hoover in the League Meet was the highlight of a season that saw many fine individual performances.

Coach Sue Fugman said of the team, "This was a building year . . . our girls were very competitive and learned a great deal."

Individual award winners were Debbie Durant, who received the Golden Eagle Award, Jennifer Vose who was awarded the Coaches Award, and Janet Tartaglia who was chosen Most Improved.

The Varsity basketball team suffered through a heartbreaking season, heartbreaking in the sense that during one stretch of the season they lost four games by a total of nine points, including one game versus Dinuba that was lost by one point in overtime.

Terry Reason dominated in both scoring and rebounding, while Cline Garner and Eric Redelfs contributed considerably to the team effort.

The mighty Clovis West grapplers, in the most exciting match of the season, ruined Washington Union's hopes for an undefeated season. This stellar performance was the team's response to the Panther coach who promised that, "We'll shut out Clovis West."

SHAKE A LEG IT'S THE BIG RUSH

-Jethro Tull

Injuries hurt the varsity soccer team this year. Two starters, Tom Geiger and Robert Martin had to sit out the season. Even without these two, the team was highly competitive in a majority of their games, even forcing some contests into overtime. The team also won the Consolation Championship in the Harold Young Tourney by beating Fresno Hi 3-1 and Porterville 2-1.

(Opposite above) VARSITY SOCCER: Bottom Row; K. Johansen, D. Geiger, J. Wells, B. Larkin, F. Woodley, R. Chavez, B. Garcia, J. Gearhart. Second Row; John Leal, J. Dunlap, R. Gilkison, B. Edmunds, M. KICK IT OUT

-Heart

This year marked the begining of a new athletic team at Clovis West–girls soccer. The girls competed in the North Yosemite League at both the varsity and junior varsity levels.

The varsity, anchored by Shannon O'Neil, posted an impressive first year record.

The junior varsity girl's attack was spearheaded by Michelle Lee and Stephanie Hunt.

-Seals and Crofts

Jennifer Martin led the way for the tough varsity girls basketball team this year. The girls were highly competitive in all the games and earned the respect of every team in the league.

Due to their great ability and winning attitude, the team finished the year with a very good record right near the top of the Central Sequoia League standings.

TWO OUT OF THREE AIN'T BAD

-Meatloaf

Golf team members at both the varsity and junior varsity levels had very good seasons that enabled the teams to finish high up in the Central Sequoia League standings.

The success of the team could be directly contributed to the coaching of Bill Wachtel and the outstanding playing ability of the team members themselves.

BORN TO RUN

-Bruce Springsteen

After having such a successful season in 1978, the track team had a tough act to follow. But the team members showed that their previous success was no fluke.

Led by long distance runners Todd Obermann and Karen VanWagenen, sprint standout Ruth Lawanson, and the strength of Vincent Cunningham and Betsy Elia in the field events, the team posted an outstanding record.

FEELING KINDA MEAN

-Foreigner

Paced by an aggressive defense and the strong armed pitching corp, the Clovis West baseball team proved to be a strong force in the Central Sequoia League.

Although injuries and a lack of experience hampered the team, they nevertheless turned in an impressive season.

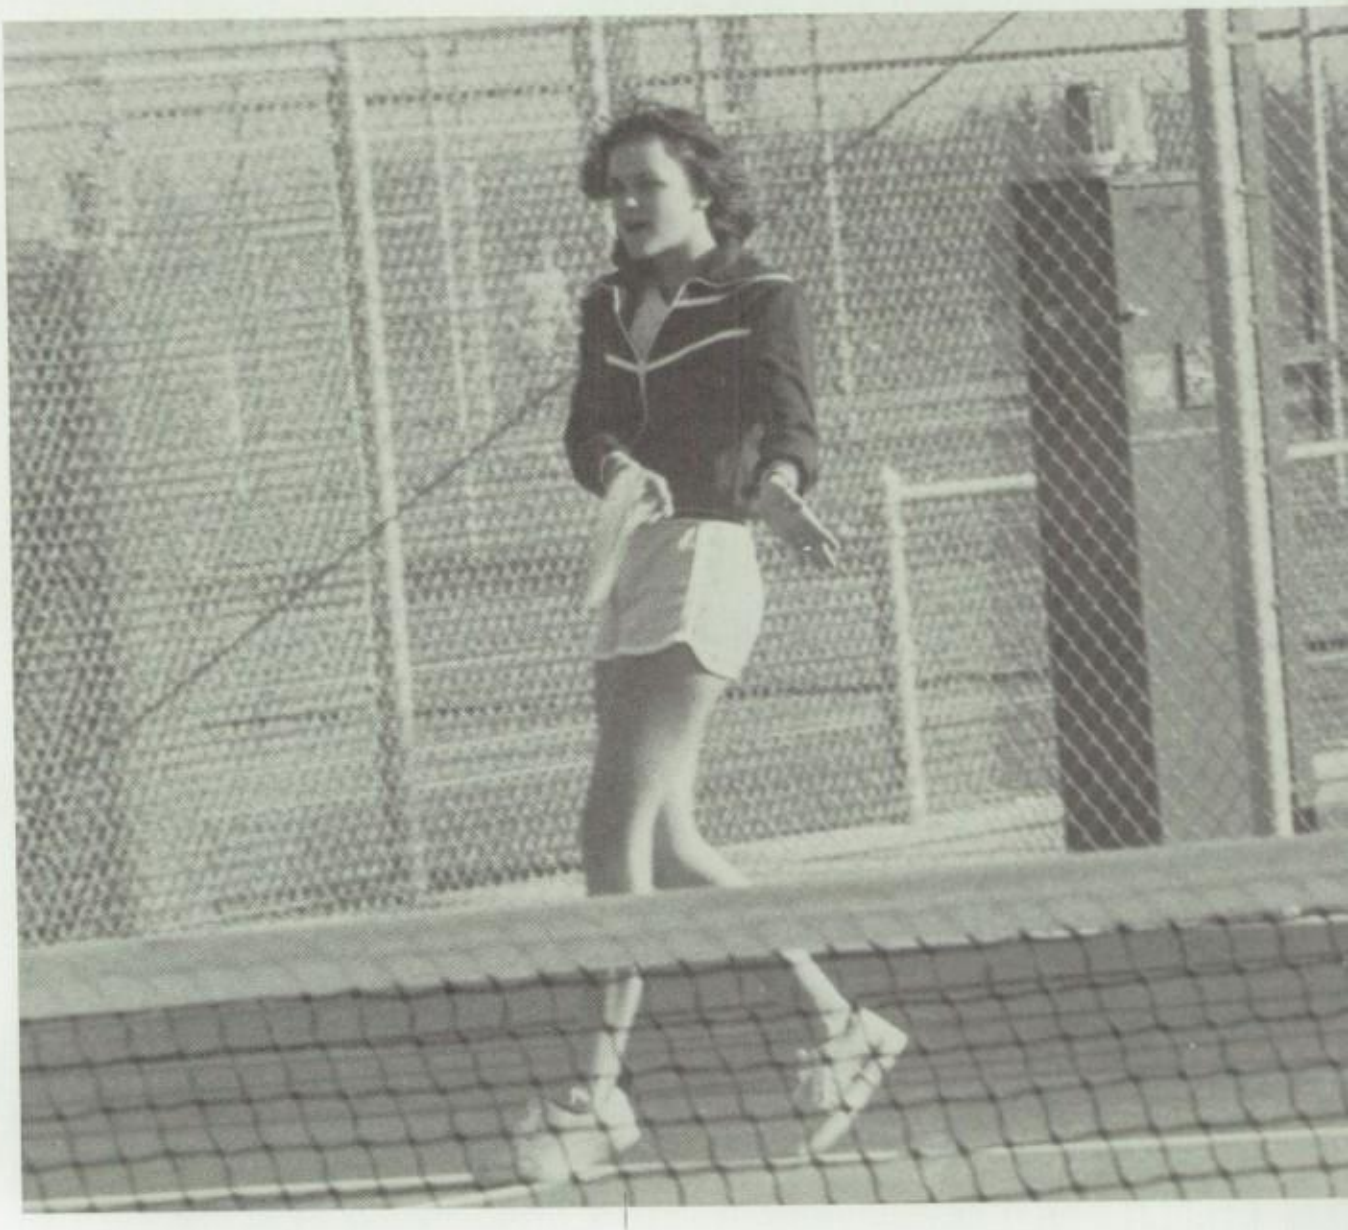
DON'T HOLD BACK

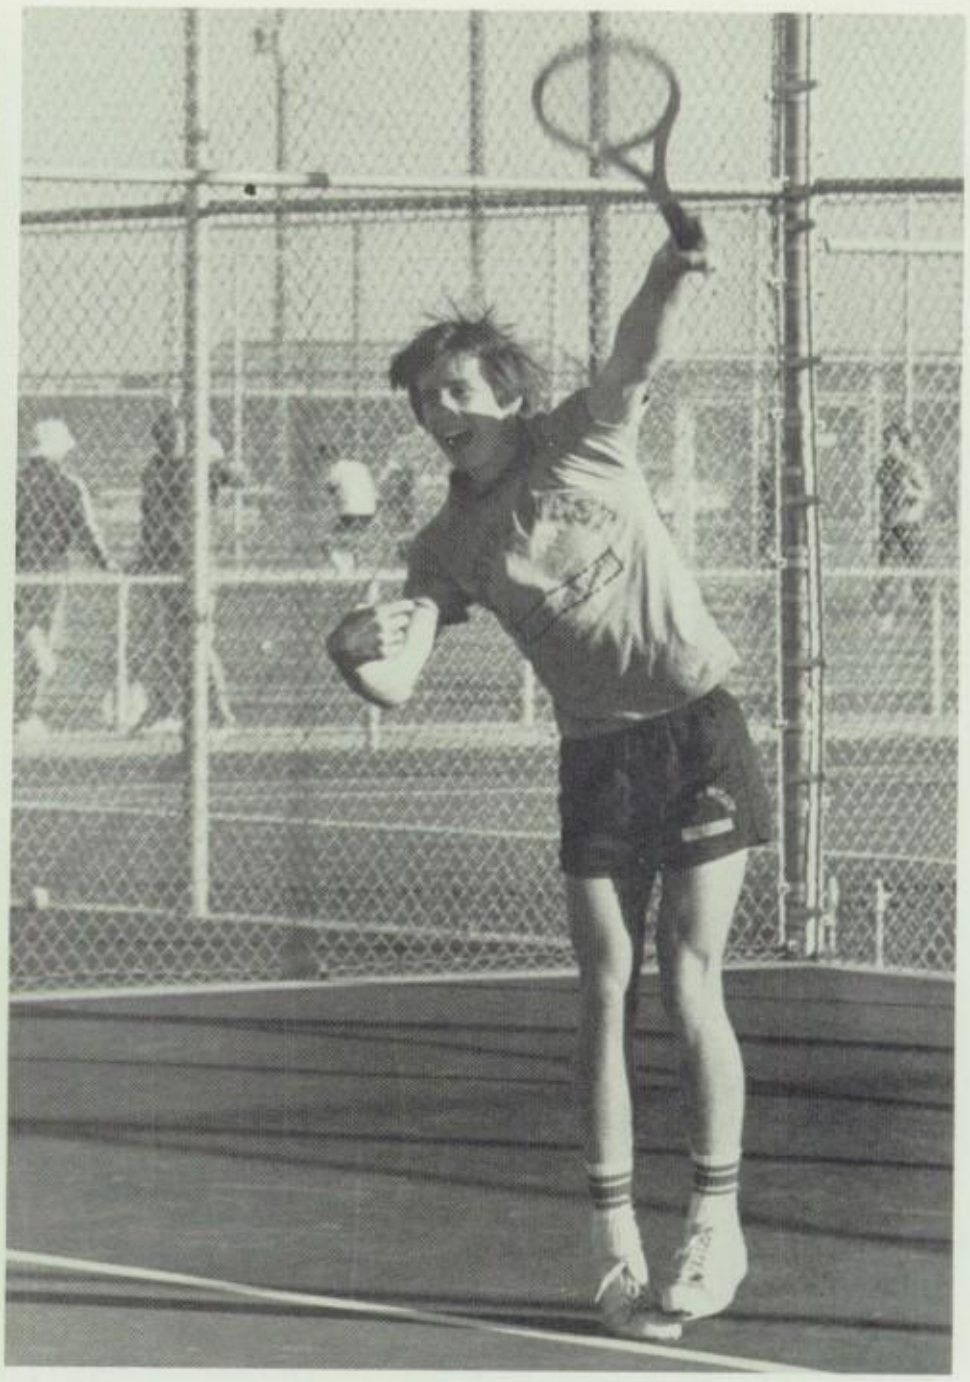
-Adlessi

With the completion of twelve new lighted tennis courts just before the season began, the tennis team could finally play their "home" matches at home.

Led by Marty Eaton and Julie Bradford, the team, though young and inexperienced, made a good showing in league play.

At the end of the season, team member's dedication and practice was apparent as the team showed substantial improvement over the beginning of the year.





(Opposite above) VARSITY TENNIS: Bottom Row; L. Findlay, J. White, G. Benzler, C. Chilgen, K. Shank. Second Row; J. Bradford, S. Weed, K. Thomason, S. Coffman, B. Cook, S. Wheeler, S. Harling, M. Boys volleyball was added this year to the sports program at Clovis West. Following in the steps of girls soccer, the sport allowed boys to participate in an interscholastic athletic activity previously reserved for females.

Inexperience was the main obstacle the team had to overcome, but under the coaching of Steve Cleveland, the boys got it together and finished their inaugural season with a good record.

BRIDGE OVER TROUBLED WATERS

-Simon and Garfunkle

Taking advantage of the excellent new swim facilities on campus, the swim team emerged as a strong force in the Central Sequoia League.

The boys enjoyed an excellent season and were very strong in all the meets they participated in. The girls, hampered by a lack of swimmers, nevertheless made a very good showing.

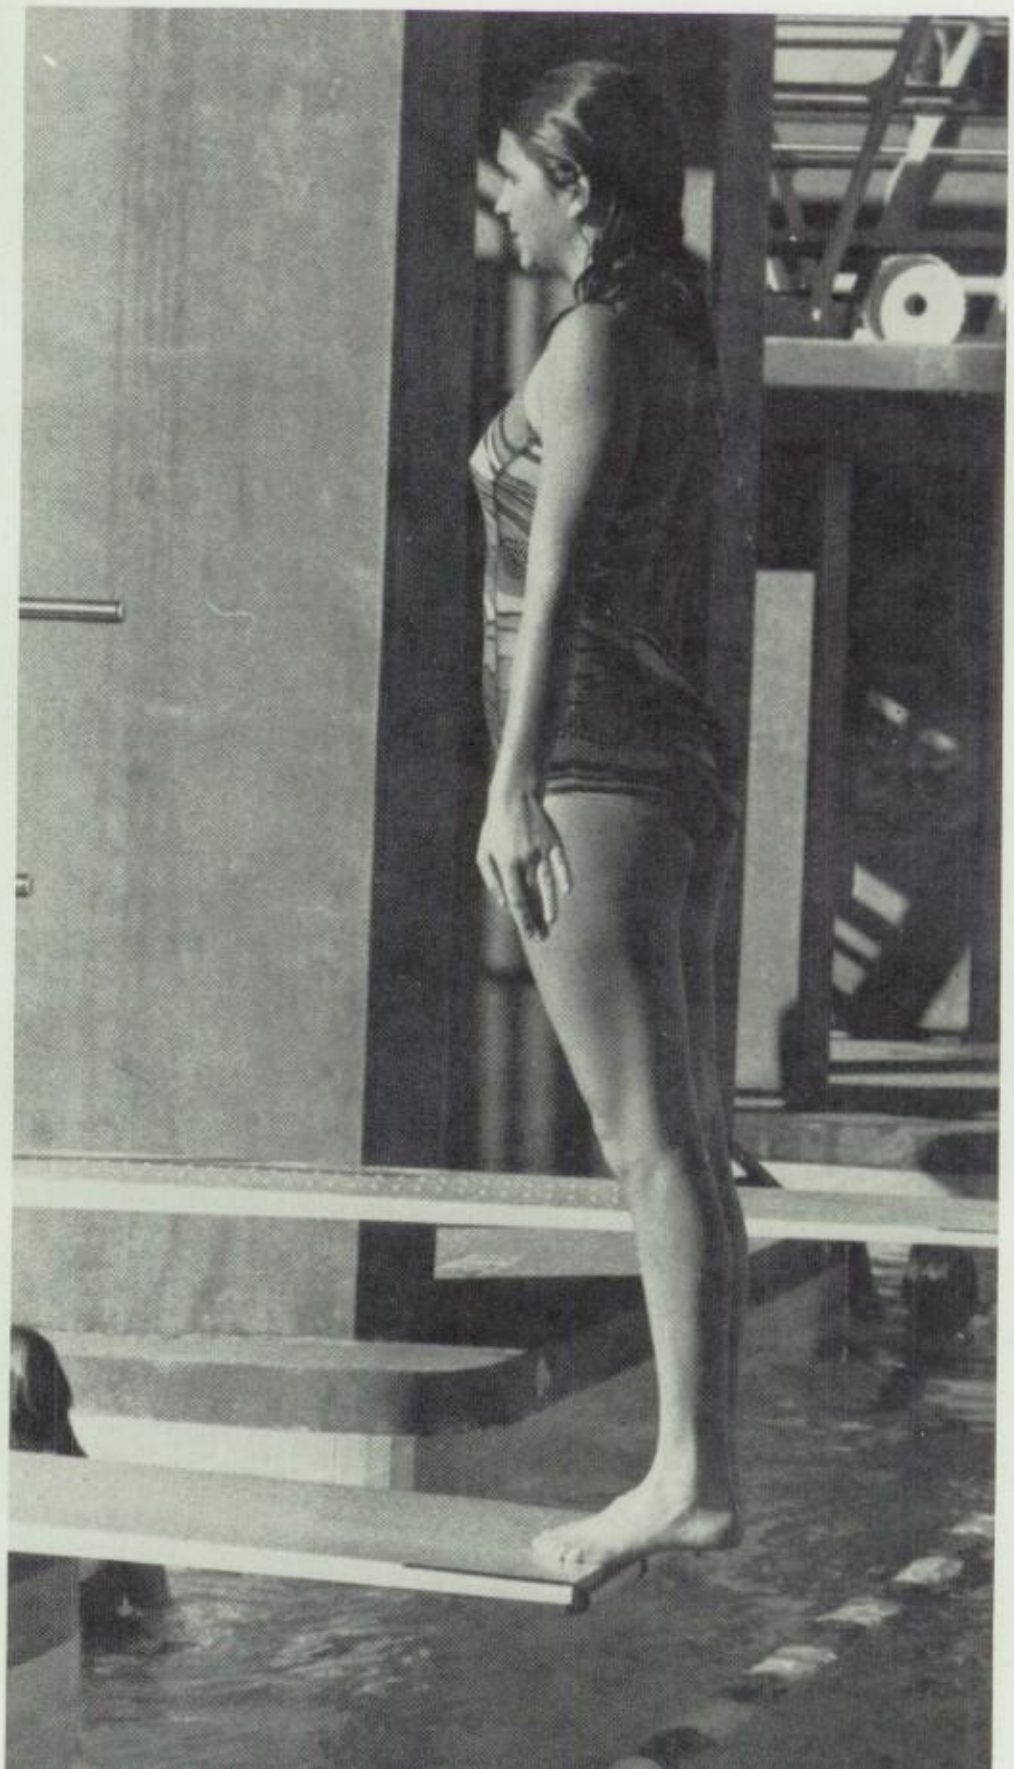
YOU AND I WE WILL CLIMB SO HIGH

-Styx

The outstanding diving facilities on campus only helped give the young diving team a big boost. With these excellent training facilities, the team showed marked improvement during the course of the season.



ROOT FOR THE HOME TEAM

-Damn Yankees

Favored by CSL, the Clovis West girls softball team began their season March 22. Led by Jennifer Martin's pitching, Suzanne Peet's throwing and Caroline Mullin's hitting, the CW girls did quite well.

Second year coach Del January was impressed by the girls continuous improving talent and their unbeatable attitude.

A Yearbook is many things—it is a business, it is a class where you can get credits, it is a service to the school and student body, but most of all it is a learning experience that is difficult to duplicate. Apart from the technical skills, we have learned about each other and working together. We learned to adjust to each others personalities, and carry our share of the work load. But most of all we learned patience, trust, how to deal with pressure and responsibliity, and we learned to accept each other for what we are. It has been an experience for me that I will never forget.

A yearbook is not done alone. The yearbook staff, that usually only gets credit for the things wrong in the book, deserves to be recognized for their time and dedication. A big thank you to a super staff! A yearbook is nothing without pictures. For innumerable favors we are indebted to Lynda Austin and Joe "Pro" Frisina, Jr. Tom Larsen helped us tie up the "loose ends" and rendered technical advice. I am appreciative for a faculty and administration that is cooperative, understanding, and sympathetic to our needs. A very special thanks to Mrs. Susan Fisher, my advisor, who's help, advice, and understanding helped me make it through the year.

Putting this yearbook together was a once in a lifetime experience for me. But the most valuable lesson that I have learned is that no matter how different we appear, or try to be, deep down inside, we're really all the same.

Don't be fooled by a radio, the TV, or the magazine, that show you photographs of how your life should be, imagine someone else's fantasy. So if you think your life is complete confusion because your neighbor's got it made, just remember that it's a grand illusion, 'cause deep inside we're all the same.
